est. of Mrs. Gentry's Mommie!

We Proudly Dedicate

It's the little things
About a woman that makes her great.
Not the speeches she makes nor the courses she teaches
But her helpfulness, no matter
What you need — The ready smile,
Counselor, teacher and friend in one,
Her cheerful, unflinching defiance of defeat
And because she is a woman like this
We present our 1949 NUSHKA

AS A TRIBUTE TO MRS. LAURA W. GENTRY.

CLASS POEM

We proudly hail thee, Glenwood High;
Our parting day is drawing nigh.
Since we must go and say adieu,
We pledge our love to you anew.

We'll miss our classmates and our fun.
The pleasures, joys that made us one,
As outward into life we go,
Will fill our hearts with a pleasant glow.

The faculty, who did their best,
Will ever in our hearts be blessed,
Because the lessons they have taught
Are not the ones we have always sought.

The path before us is unknown,
But full assurance is our own
That we can better meet the day,
Because our footsteps passed this way.

So hail to thee, dear Glenwood High,
Our love for thee will never die;
So "Backward never, onward ever,
To soar to heights above."

STATISTICS

As Statistician of the Class of '49, I have endeavored to assemble those facts, figures, and whims of my classmates which should be most pleasant and profitable.

I find that the average senior is 17 years old, is 5 feet, 7 inches tall, and weighs 132½ pounds. The "forty-niner" is a healthy, young fellow. The entire class, consisting of 29 seniors, weighs exactly 3842½ pounds.

The majority of the seniors has blue eyes and brown hair. Incidentally, I find that we have only one red-head in our class. Since the majority has blue eyes we take blue as our favorite color.

The class as a whole believes in love at first sight. Twenty-five members say they do believe in it while four members do not.

Mrs. Gentry and Mrs. Bradsher are the favorite faculty members with Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Whitesides as runners-up. As our favorite subjects, I find that math and geography are best liked by the majority of the class. French is the runner-up by the girls.

The favorite song is "Tennessee Moon" with "Far Away Places" and "A Little Bird Told Me" being runners-up.

Most of our class say they do not go for politics: although we do have four Democrats and one Republican in our class.

Our class is composed of Baptists and Methodists. Predominantly, it is Baptist.

Some of our class prefer walking, but when it comes to riding they prefer Fords and Chevrolets.

As our favorite actors and actresses, we find June Allyson and Bing Crosby being first.

When it comes to pastime we find most of our class loafing and eating. And, speaking of eating, the favorite foods are irish potatoes and chicken.

We take as our pet peeve teachers and the junior class.

When we stop to read, we prefer books by Grace Livingston Hill. When reading becomes tiresome, we tune up the radio and listen to anything from Lux Radio Theatre to Inner Sanctum.

The greatest ambition of the Senior Class of '49 is to get married, and look at the progress most of them are making!

HISTORY OF

In September 1937, a happy, good looking, frightened, and proud group of boys and girls entered the first grade at Glenwood school. The first year was under the direction of Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Cranford. This year we learned to read and write simple words.

The second year was under the direction of Miss Holland and Miss Brannon.

We felt practically grown-up in the third grade with an arithmetic book. Miss Nell Curtis and Miss Thelma Bright were our third grade teachers.

Mrs. Faye Wells was our fourth grade teacher, and, after receiving a geography book, we felt we knew it all.

We just began to realize how little we know when we reached the fifth grade. We got through that year successfully under the direction of Miss Lily Pyatt.

Miss Wilma Sprinkle was our sixth grade teacher.

Mrs. Charlene Teague was our seventh grade teacher.

In the eighth grade the students from Sugar Hill who joined our ranks were: Jeanette Lawing, Ethel Cable, Herbert Lawing, Chester Free, Anna Belle Ledford, Sarah Jane Marlow, Marcus Lawing, Frank Wilkerson, Ed Cable, and Ruby Shell.

The students from Dysartsville who came were: Alice Humphries, Doris Whitener, Margaret Hennessee, Bill Huskins, Marlie Biggerstaff, Betty Price, Leonard Price, Grady Hogan, Edith Evans, Lois Hicks, and Agnes Toney.

The students who dropped out this year were: Jay Gardin, Leonard Price, Marcus Lawing, Herbert Lawing, Chester Free, Frank Smith, Stewart Seaman, Bill Huskins, Georgia Wheeler, Franklin Gilliam, Fred Daye, J. C. Gibson, and Kenneth Arrowood. Mrs. Charlene Teague was the eighth grade sponsor.

We entered high school under the sponsorship of the principal, Mr. W. V. Nix. Our class officers were: President, Helen Thompson; Vice-President, Willette Holland; and Secretary and Treasurer, Jeanette Lawing. This year Jimmie Lawing and Helen Thompson represented Glenwood over radio station WWNC, Asheville, on the School of the Air. Jimmy Wise also won a two hundred dollar scholarship to North Carolina State College by winning a state-wide 4-H Club contest.

Miss Truby J. Ledbetter was our sophomore sponsor. The officers were: President, Jeanette Lawing; Vice-President, Willie Swan; Secretary and Treasurer, Marlie Biggerstaff.

CLASS OF '49

Our junior sponsor was Mrs. Laura Gentry. The officers were: President, Ruby Holland; Vice-President, Betty Jo Sprinkle; Secretary and Treasurer, Doris Whitener. We had two main projects last year. The first was the junior play entitled, "Life At Aunt Minnie's," presented in the high school auditorium on December 5, 1947. It was very successful. The proceeds from the play was spent on our second project, entertaining the seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The banquet was held at the Marion Community Building, May 6, 1948. The theme of the banquet was "An Old Fashioned Garden." The seniors enjoyed it very much. Helen Thompson went to Greensboro for Girls State, which was sponsored by the American Legion.

This, our senior year, we are twenty-nine in number after many gains and losses. During our high school years the following students have joined our class: H. D. Monteith, James Monteith, Faye Marlowe, Guy Wells, Thelma Simmons, Sammy Hamilton, Carl Bliesner, Dorothy Burton, Velma Lail, Lois Gardener, Dwight Berry, and Dorothy Mashburn.

The following students have left our class since we entered high school: Wiley Autrey, Ruth Webb, Mac Swann, Thelma Simmons, Ethel Cable, Ruth Plemmons, Betty Price, Lois Hicks, Alice Humphries, Sammy Hamilton, Robert Collins, Edward Cable, John B. Padgett, Carl Bliesner, Lois Gardener, Dwight Berry, Velma Lail, Harold Nelson, James Monteith, Margaret Hennessee, Agnes Toney, Dorothy Mashburn, Juanita Revis, Marlie Biggerstaff, Jim Ferguson, and Betty Jo Sprinkle.

The former members of our class who are now married are: Ethel Cable, Ruth Plemmons, Mae Swann, Marlie Biggerstaff, Frank Smith, Leonard Price, Alice Humphries, Agnes Toney, Wiley Autrey, Betty Jo Sprinkle, Thelma Simmons, Georgia Wheeler, and Florence Ledford.

Jim Ferguson, Harold Nelson, J. C. Gibson and Franklin Gilliam are in the navy, and Fred Daye and Kenneth Arrowood are serving in the army.

Mrs. Laura Gentry is our sponsor again this year.

The senior class of the year of nineteen hundred and forty-nine! For twelve years we have struggled to reach this peak, and at last we are crossing the horizon to face an unknown world. But the teaching and training the teachers at Glenwood have given us has made each of us ready to take his individual place in the world, and this is enough assurance that none will fail as each pursues his own course.

HELEN THOMPSON

PROPHECY

You can't imagine how excited I was when the manager of the professional basketball team of which I was captain told us that we would play an exhibition game in Asheville, North Carolina. I had been playing with the Chicago "Kittens" for ten years and had not seen any of my classmates from Glenwood during that time. The family had written me bits about various folks, but I was hungry for a good old gossip session with the gang, so when we reached Asheville I got a few days off to run over to see the folks and to catch up on things.

Before catching the bus I decided to stop for lunch. I had no idea of seeing anyone quite so soon, but there, eating lunch also, were Jeanette Lawing and Bonnie Jean Eplee who were catching the bus to go home after a hard week in their beauty salon. The big surprise, however, was to find that our bus driver was Frank Wilkerson.

When we reached the bus terminal in Marion we went inside, accompanied by Frank, and who should be the waitress but Florence Poteat. We all had a cup of coffee and then chatted a while; then I journeyed on my way.

While I was going down the street, whom should I meet in front of Woolworth's but the former Dorothy Burton, now Mrs. Guy Wells, and their two little red-headed children. Guy is now the owner of an ABC store in West Asheville. They told me that Ruby and Willette Holland are teaching at the Glenwood College. They also told me of Ruby Shell, who recently left for California to see her husband, Admiral James L. Ferguson.

I went into Ivey's then. They had told me I would find Willie Swan there. She is designing clothes for Faye Marlowe, now a famous movie star. Willie told me of her recent divorce from Don Silver and of Don's marriage to Ann Simmons. Ann is now an opera singer for Kay Kyser at WBBO.

As we went out of Ivey's who should slam the door in my face but Grady Hogan who told me he is now a professional boxer at Madison Square Garden and is fighting for the world's heavyweight championship next week. Grady told me his old friend H. D. Monteith is now the owner of a large lumber company in Seattle, Washington.

After leaving Grady, a familiar name caught my eye. On a sign hanging over a door was the name "Helen Thompson," and below were the words "Get thin to music—Records for sale inside." While talking to Helen, I learned that Leroy Walker and his guitar are now very famous and that Leroy has made several popular recordings.

I crossed the street then, and there directing the traffic was none other than Roy Poteat. He told me Edith Evans is now the owner of Gladden's Cafe and Betty Ann Bowman is assistant manager at Belk's. As I strolled on down the street I decided to stop at the drug store to pass the time away. While I was sitting there, absorbed in thoughts of yesterday, I decided that the little short soda jerk must be Laura Ann Green, and, true to my decision, she was. She told me that Jimmy Wise and Cecil Laughridge were living lives of bachelorhood in the hills of Tennessee and were very well contented. This conversation soon came to an end, and I was on my way.

Since the evening was all mine and I had nothing to do, I decided to stop at the museum and browse about a bit. You can't imagine my astonishment to find that its owner was one of my dear classmates, Doris Whitener. She and I discussed our school days to the fullest extent; then I was on my way again.

Well, my visit in Marion had to come to an end, and I had to make my way back to Asheville. I called a cab to take me to the bus station, and, behold, when I sat down who should be in the cab but Mamie Lewis, who was going home after a hard day's work at the First National Bank, and who should be the cab driver but Jimmie Lawing. We talked for a while about our old school days, and the good times we had at Glenwood High. The more we talked, the more there was to talk about. Finally, Jim told me that Annie Ray is now a basketball coach at Mars Hill College. Annie was good at basketball while in school, but I thought graduation would be the end of her ball career; however, she still seems to be as spry and energetic as she did almost ten years ago. After seeing and talking to all of my classmates I remembered that I had heard nothing about Anna Belle Ledford; so I was curious and asked Mamie about her. She told me Anna Belle was still working at Rose 5c & 10c Store.

As I climbed aboard my bus and traveled toward Asheville, I could not help being sobered by the reflection of how scattered we had become in ten brief years.

THE WILL OF

I, Bonnie Jean Eplee, Lawyer of the class of nineteen hundred and forty-nine, of Glenwood High School, State of North Carolina, realizing that the members of the aforesaid class are of unstable mind and memory, do hereby act in their stead, in disposing of the following rights(?), privileges(?), prerogatives and properties.

ARTICLE I

We do will and bequeath to our faculty, a group of students who are so zealous in the pursuit of knowledge that they will not daily seek excuses for staying out of classes.

To Mr. Whitesides, we leave the hope for a senior class that will not sit on the library tables and who will not chew weeds on class.

To Miss Byrd, we leave the fond hope that she will have one public speaking class that will not chew gum or get the jitters when speaking before a group.

To Mrs. Bradsher, we leave a French class with a French accent.

To Mrs. Anderson, we leave the hopes of a business arithmetic class without a study hall.

To Mrs. Gentry, we leave a homeroom that will uphold the senior tradition and give her fewer grey hairs.

To Mr. Nave, we leave some students who are "interested" in agriculture.

ARTICLE II

To the worthy class of 1950, we grant our permission to keep up the search for the long lost or never to be found senior privileges. If found, handle with care.

To the sophomores, we drop a reminder as to the proper use of respect and dignity.

To the freshmen, we bequeath a reminder that as yet they are still freshmen and have not attained the privilege of flirting with seniors.

We, the seniors of forty-nine, deem it best not to bequeath the intellectual attainments, good-looks, and physical well-being of this senior class to any other, believing that such laurels, to be appreciated, must be won.

Sarah Jane Marlow and Jeanette Lawing leave their athletic ability to Maxine Viers.

Grady Hogan leaves "ole Hanner" to Larry Sprouse.

To Leota Robinson and Erlene Reel, Doris Whitener and Betty Anne Bowman leave their quiet ways.

THE CLASS OF '49

Ruby Holland wishes to inflict upon Mary Margaret Deck her French book, in hopes that she will burn the midnight oil.

Jimmie Lawing leaves his athletic ability to Jim Haney.

Willette Holland wishes to bequeath to Rosa Lee Baker her most talented talents.

To Grace Kaylor, Helen Thompson wills her surplus (?) amount of brains.

Roy Poteat bestows his conceited ways upon James Monteith.

Don Silver leaves Lee Holland his mischievous ways.

To Mary Morgan, Anne Simmons leaves her title of the "Best Looking Girl in the Senior Class."

To Lexie Laws, Laura Ann Green leaves her popularity.

Leroy Walker leaves his popularity with the girls (freshmen) to Donald Wright.

Anna Belle Ledford leaves her baseball knowledge to Alene Painter.

Mamie Lewis and Edith Evans bequeath their excellence in French to Mary Sue Hogan.

Florence Poteat leaves her secret of success to Joyce Marlowe.

Willie Swan leaves her cuteness to Gladys Sumlin.

Leroy Walker and Jimmy Wise leave their flirtatious ways to Wayne Morris.

Guy Wells leaves his "wind" to Hoyt Gragg.

Annie Ray leaves to Margie Harris some of her "wim, wigger, and witality."

To Harold McCulloch, H. D. Monteith leaves his good looks.

Faye Marlowe leaves her courteous ways to Helen Evans.

Frank Wilkerson leaves "ole Huldy" to Walter Harris.

Cecil Laughridge leaves his high grades to Floyd Hanes.

Ruby Shell leaves to Nancy Blalock her hatred of men.

Dorothy Burton leaves her babyish ways to Dottie Marlowe.

And I, Bonnie Jean Eplee, having no one to leave my possessions to, and knowing that no one would have them, will have to keep them and make the best of them.
